

GRAND LODGE TO BUILD A TEMPLE

Masons of North Carolina Have Already Subscribed Large Amount.

AFTER THE MANUFACTURERS

Pogue Having Much Success in Enlisting Interest of Exhibitors.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., January 9.—Good progress is being made by the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons in one-hundred-and-twentieth annual session here. The attendance is over 500, and reports show Masonry in best condition in the history of the order in this State. The report of the committee for the erection of the Grand Lodge Temple in this city shows $12,179 received during the year, and $39,067 subscribed, this being in addition to the $50,000 first mortgage bonds already sold.

The committee has adopted the plans for the temple as just completed by Architect Charles McMillen, of Wilmington. It will be seven stories, the first two of Illinois limestone and the other five of pressed brick, and terra-cotta trimmings to harmonize with the limestone. A banking house and two store-rooms will occupy the first floor, the offices of the grand secretary of the Grand Lodge and lodgerooms for local lodges on the second. The third, fourth and fifth will be offices for rent and the sixth and seventh will be devoted to Grand Lodge purposes. There will be two electric elevators. The building will be fireproof, constructed throughout of reinforced concrete. Work is to begin not later than March 1st, the laying of GRAND MASTER FRANK D. WINSTON, the cornerstone to be on St. John's Day, June 24th next.

The report of the Masonic Orphanage at Oxford, showed that 250 orphans are being cared for, with prospects for thirty more. The receipts of the institution last year were $8,440, and an appropriation of $10,000 is asked for this year.

Jamestown Exhibit.

Commissioner-General Joseph E. Pogue, of the North Carolina representation at the Jamestown Exposition, went to Winston-Salem last night to appear before the Chamber of Commerce and other business organizations with reference to representation of the great manufacturing interests of that city at the exposition.

The board has already decided to go into the matter of representation very extensively. Mr. Pogue has also been called to High Point, where the furniture manufacturing and other interests second only to Grand Rapids have determined to send credible representation to the exposition in connection with the North Carolina representation.

Mr. Pogue is perfecting arrangements with boards of trade of all the principal cities of the State whereby prospectors who are attracted to the North Carolina exhibits, and desire to make personal investigation in any section, can be sent from North Carolina headquarters to representatives of these boards of trade, with a view to securing them as investors or settlers.

Run Down by Auto Car.

The big automobile of Mr. C. B. Barbee ran over Mr. C. M. Bishbee, a prominent lawyer of this city, to-day. On Fayetteville Street, nearly opposite the post-office. Fortunately no bones were broken. However, he was right painfully bruised. Charters were issued to-day for the Piedmont Brick Company of Pilot Mountain, $50,000 capital, by G. O. Key and others, and to the Consolidated Brick and Tile Company, of Winston-Salem, capital $125,000, by J. L. and George A. Hanes and others.

Park Hotel has just been reopened, under the management of Howell Cobb, who also runs the Yarrowborough. The Park is just handsomely refitted and finished especially for tourist travel, and ranks as one of the handsomest hotels of the country.

GREAT HOG THIS.

When Ten Months Old He Weighed 750 Pounds.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
HENDESON, N. C., January 9.—The people of the community were greatly pleased to learn this morning that Miss Isabel, the accomplished daughter of Mr. Windom E. Garey, a prominent citizen of Henderson and former resident of Manchester, Va., died at her home, after a brief illness.

The number of bales of cotton marketed in Henderson this season are 6,000, ginned, about 2,500, and 7,000,000 pounds of leaf tobacco have been sold at the warehouses.

Mr. Charles Harris, of Kittrells, has a hog of ten months old that weighed in December, 1906, 750 pounds.

Omega Oil

For Sprains and Bruises

It would hardly be truthful to say Omega Oil cures Bruises and Sprains and Strains. Nature herself does most of the curing, but the Oil stops the pain while the bruised place is being cured. The pain is what annoys you, and Omega Oil must be given the credit for fixing you up so you will not suffer. Omega Oil soothes, softens and comforts any pain you apply it to. If the pain is not too great, the Oil is to be well rubbed in. This sets up a good circulation of the blood, and the result is always beneficial.

Besides rubbing, some of the Oil should be bound around the ailing part. Three sizes: 10c., 25c., 50c.

Omega Oil is also good for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sore Throat and Cold in Chest. Free sample Omega Oil Soap in every bottle of Omega Oil.

States, raised on the stock farm of Mr. Joseph Moore, of Oxford, N. C., was sold to parties in Baltimore for $500. En route to that city the animal died from being "overheated," but was sold to soap manufacturers of Baltimore. When dressed it weighed 550 pounds.

MR. M'ADEN CHOSEN.

Succeeds Mr. Gilreath as Head of First National.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHARLOTTE, N. C., January 9.—The national banks of Charlotte, four in number, held their annual meetings yesterday. With a single exception all the officers elected were the same as in the previous year. Mr. Frank Gilreath declined re-election to the presidency of the First National and Henry M. McAden was elected in his stead. For years his father, R. Y. McAden, was the president of this institution. At all of the meetings the reports of the officers showed that the banks were enjoying unprecedented prosperity. At the meeting of the directors of the Southern States Trust Company the name of this institution was changed to the American Trust Company, and its capital doubled, now being $400,000.

UNUSUAL CONCESSION.

Uncle Sam Puts Postal Substation in Carolina Capitol.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., January 9.—The branch post-office, Station A, in the State House, for the convenience of the members and clerks of the General Assembly, was opened this morning. It is a fact especially noteworthy that there is not another State in the Union except New York that has been favored by the government with such a service. There is one established in the State House at Albany, N. Y., for the legislative sessions. The allowance for a messenger is also still further concession by the government. His duty will be to carry the mail between the Raleigh post-office and the State House station. The legislators have Hon. F. H. Hillecock, First Assistant Postmaster, to thank for this station, as he granted the concession at the urgent request of Postmaster W. G. Briggs, of the Raleigh post-office.

Remains of William G. Carr Reinterred.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHAPEL HILL, N. C., January 9.—The remains of the late William Green Carr, who died in 1893, brother of General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, N. C., were exhumed yesterday from the spot where they have rested for the past forty-four years, on the old Carr homestead property, in the village, and removed to Durham for reinterment, the approaching sale of the Carr homestead being the occasion of their removal.

William Green Carr, the son of the late John W. Carr, died in August, 1893. However, the casket in which his body was placed, and which was sunk several feet deeper in the grave than is customary, was to-day found to be in a state of almost perfect preservation. This casket, oval in shape, of cast-iron, probably represents a type of metallic coffin that has come entirely out of use. Save for a coating of rust, it is now in as perfect condition as when it was placed in the earth. The body within was not sufficiently well preserved for recognition. Search was made at the same time for two wooden caskets containing the bodies of infants, beside which the iron coffin had been interred, but no trace of them could be found.

Whitmore—Lindsay.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
LEESBURG, VA., January 9.—Mr. M. H. Whitmore, of Lickett's, a member of the board of supervisors of Loudoun county, and a large farmer, and Miss Mary Lindsay, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William B. Lindsay, of Lovettsville, were married to-day at the bride's home by Rev. Mortimer Souder. They will reside near Leesburg.

WILLIAM BERLIN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Gun in Hands of Companion Goes Off—Young Negro Held for Arson.

WINCHESTER, VA., January 9.—As the result of an accidental discharge of a gun, William Berlin, the eighteen-year-old son of W. A. Berlin, lies at the point of death at the home of a neighbor, near Stone Bridge, Clarke county. Young Berlin and a companion were out hunting to-day, his companion walking by his side, when the gun was accidentally discharged, the contents entering Berlin's neck and head.

Following a fire last night, which threatened to destroy the house occupied by Carrie Galtor, a colored woman, and belonging to Joshua Barnett, Charles Taylor, a young colored man, was arrested on the charge of having set fire to the place. He was given a hearing before Justice Wilson, and the evidence was such that the young man was lodged in jail to await the action of the grand jury.

BIG GRIZZLY BEAR FRIGHTENS STUDENT

Bruin Roaming Around Near Danville—President May Be Invited to a Hunt.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DANVILLE, VA., January 9.—G. C. Alderson, a student at the commercial college here, had an exciting experience after midnight Sunday night with a big grizzly bear. Alderson was driving to the city in a buggy, and about a mile beyond the city his horse suddenly came to a stop. A second later a bear attempted to climb into the vehicle.

Alderson put the lash on his horse and was soon free out of reach. The bear has been seen on several occasions around the city, but all efforts of hunters to locate the bruin when armed have proved futile. The bear some days ago frightened several little children in the country en route to school.

The President may be invited down to take a bear hunt.

HARRY MANTLO DIES BY DROWNING

Mysterious Death of Young Man at Newport News—Formally Resident Here.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., January 9.—The dead body of Harry Mantlo, a young farmer of Henrico county, was found floating on the river here this morning at 9 o'clock by a negro named Charlie Barnes. The young man is supposed to have fallen overboard from one of the piers this morning, as the body apparently had been in the water only a few hours. A coroner's inquest returned a verdict to the effect that death was caused by drowning either on January 8 or January 9.

In the pockets of a black suit in which the body was found were several articles which served to identify the man. Among the papers was a bank book showing a deposit in the Richmond Savings Bank and giving the address, "Harry Mantlo, Williamsburg Road, Henrico county." There was an unsigned deed of transfer for an interest in some property near Falls Church, which was left to John Mantlo. It appears that the drowned man was a son of John Mantlo.

Young Mantlo came here yesterday from Richmond to visit the family of Charles Wagner, No. 300, Twenty-fifth Street. After visiting the house in the afternoon, he came into the city, and was not seen again. He is said to have been drinking, and is supposed to have wandered alone to the water front. The body is being held here until Mantlo's relatives can be heard from.

GEORGIANS QUIT TREASURY CAUCUS

Not Willing to Be Bound by Vote of Men From Southern States as to Location.

BIRMINGHAM DECIDED UPON

Alabama City Wins Over Columbia by One Vote in an Interesting Fight.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., January 9.—The feature of the first day's session of the North Carolina General Assembly was opposition on the part of prominent Democrats to granting the request of Governor Glenn to be allowed to appear before a joint session of the Senate and House to-morrow in person to read his biennial message.

The contention of George L. Morton, of New Market, Walter Murphy, of Salisbury, and a number of other prominent Democrats was that the innovation was in violation of the Constitution, which requires that the messages of the Governor be "transmitted" and brought the executive and legislative branches of government in too close official contact.

Advocates of the resolution to grant the Governor's request said they thought Governor Glenn would withdraw the request when he was informed of the opposition.

So a committee was sent to him; but the Governor sent a message back that while he would not have made the request had he dreamed of opposition, still now that he had made it, he would insist on a fight to finish—either adopt or defeat the resolution. Doughton, of Allegheny, as principal champion of the resolution, insisted that there was no violation of the Constitution, and referred to the fact that some other States, including Virginia, had in recent years heard the messages directly from the Governor. In answer to this the opposition replied that the North Carolina and Virginia Constitutions are different in many respects, and in this in particular. The discussion continued possibly two hours, with the result that the resolution was carried by a good majority, and the reading by the Governor will take place at 11:30 to-morrow, the Senate having previously passed the resolution without opposition, which caused such a fight in the House.

Elect Justice Speaker.

The Democratic caucus nominee for Speaker, E. J. Justice, of Guilford, was placed in nomination by his erstwhile opponent, W. C. Dowd, of Charlotte. Mr. Dowd paid a tribute to his opponent's fine qualities, and referred to their college days together. Mr. N. Harshaw, the Republican caucus nominee for Speaker, was placed in nomination by A. T. Grant, of David. The roll-call vote showed ninety-five votes for Justice and twenty-two for Harshaw, the latter casting his vote for Mr. Justice, thereby eliciting hearty applause.

Mr. Justice, when escorted to the Speaker's chair, referred to impending legislation, declaring that courageous action is necessary in dealing with trusts and corporations. The law of supply and demand, he said, is not prevailing in any State. Trusts should be made amenable to the criminal laws, and those in other States should be domesticated before agents are allowed in the State. He declared that the constitutional limit must be reached in protecting the rights of the people. He also referred especially to the need for insurance legislation.

HARRIS TRIAL DRAWS CROWD

Hundreds of Spectators Attend Session of Durham Court, Engaged in Murder Case.

WROTE NOTES TO MAN'S WIFE

Accused Does Not Deny This, But Asserts They Were on Business Matters.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
DURHAM, N. C., January 9.—With the courtroom crowded to the doors and many eager faces listening and waiting in suspense, the interesting trial of Joseph B. Harris for the murder of Maynard Goss, which was begun in this city in December, was resumed this morning shortly before 12 o'clock.

The selection of the grand jury required practically the entire morning session. The jury selected are mostly farmers that came from different parts of the country to hear the trial.

Harris appeared in court, accompanied by his attorneys. He was very cheerful and listened to the proceedings of the court as a casual observer, showing no signs of fear.

Dr. N. M. Johnson, the physician who performed the autopsy over the remains, was the first witness for the State. His testimony gave the direct cause of Goss's death and the range of the pistol shot. One other witness for the State was J. Massey, who was in the store at the time of the fatal shot, and testified that he saw Harris shoot Goss. With the examination of only two witnesses, the solicitor and his assistants announced that they would rest the case.

Notes to Man's Wife.

That came as quite a surprise. There were no developments in the morning session to show what was the direct cause of the tragedy. It is the general opinion that the court will reach a decision in the case by to-morrow night. They have made rapid progress in the trial.

Late this afternoon Joseph Harris, the defendant, was placed on the stand, and the cause of the tragedy was made clear to the public eye. Harris cited several occasions during the past few months that Goss, the murdered man, had followed him at night, and on a number of occasions threatened his life, proving the same by witnesses.

It was brought out in court that Harris had been writing notes to the murdered man's wife. The defendant did not deny this fact, but stated that he would have readily allowed his own wife to read the business notes.

The case will probably reach the jury to-morrow morning. It will be hotly contested, and the verdict is looked forward to with much interest.

SPENCER B. ADAMS, REPUBLICAN NOMINEE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., January 9.—To-night the Republican caucus of the North Carolina General Assembly named Spencer B. Adams, Republican State chairman, as its nominee for United States Senator. The Democrats will name present United States Senator F. M. Simmons, who will be elected, as the General Assembly is overwhelmingly Democratic.

Spencer Adams for Senate.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., January 9.—The joint caucus of Republican members of the General Assembly to-night agreed to nominate Spencer B. Adams, chairman of the State Republican Executive Committee, as United States Senator to succeed F. M. Simmons, whom the Democrats will elect to succeed himself. J. J. Britte, of Buncombe, received two votes in the caucus. Other than these Adams received the full vote of the Republican members. The election of the Senator is to take place January 15th.

KILLS FATHER; WOUNDS BROTHER

Negroes Get in Drunken Brawl and George Smith Uses Pistol on Kin.

CULPEPER, VA., January 9.—A frightful tragedy occurred in the lower portion of this county, near Kellyville, early this morning. George Smith, a young negro man, aged nineteen years, shot and instantly killed his father, after mortally wounding his brother with the same pistol.

The facts are that these three negroes, James Smith and his two sons, George, who did the killing, and Frank, in company with some other negroes, went across the Rappahannock River into Fauquier county, and after loading their stomachs and bottles with whiskey, returned to the Culpeper side to celebrate, and a general disturbance ensued.

George Smith accused his brother, Frank, of siding with the other negroes against him, and deliberately drawing his six-shooter, shot Frank, inflicting what is now thought a mortal wound, and then James Smith, the father of both George and Frank, interfered for the latter, when George, with an oath towards the old man, turned his still smoking pistol against him and fired twice, both shots taking effect in the abdomen, from which he immediately sank to the ground in death.

There is considerable excitement in that section among the negroes on account of the murder of the defenseless old father, and vengeance is sworn against the slayer if he is found in those parts.

The murderer immediately escaped to the woods, no negroes in the general mix-up being sober enough to give him chase.

The officers from this city, however, are on his track, and it is expected that he will be captured to-day and brought here for safekeeping.
